Casey Feldman Foundation, EndDD & 60forSafety Distracted Driving Campaign

Tom, Nick, Mason, Stephanie and everyone at Injury Board:

Di and I can't thank you enough for all that you have done for us and the Distracted Driving campaign. You are really great at what you do-the ROI concept, bringing people together to share and connect-and wonderfully kind and compassionate human beings. Di and I have so many opportunities to help others in large part as a result of your taking our local Distracted Driving presentation and making it a North American initiative. You know that Casey had an incredible ability to be empathic and encouraged everyone to tell their story. One might say that the story of this campaign is that 2 Philadelphia trial lawyers lost their daughter to distracted driving, and when presented with an opportunity to help, trial lawyers from across the country and Canada, in the Injury Board family and community, responded overwhelmingly-about 50,000 students reached this year and I have no doubt that we will reach more than 100,000 next year. The feedback from attorney presenters and students has been incredible. Casey's story is being told and it is making a difference for the teens who hear it and share that story with their families.

I also know that telling Casey's story is making a difference for those who tell her story. So many of the Injury Board attorneys have reached out to me letting me know that they have also changed the way that they drive. They are driving safer, but also valuing life and relationships and holding those they love just a bit closer. That is so gratifying to us as we know that life and health are gifts and are not guaranteed.

Your generosity of spirit and resources-time commitment and your donation to Casey's Foundation are incredible. We are so honored to be the recipients of the Injury Board 2012 Community Outreach Award. I know that because of who you are and the importance that you place on service, there will be many more wonderful recipients of this award in the future as the 60forSafety programs grow and continue to positively affect communities across North America. We are so thankful to be a part of the Injury Board "community" and very much respect how you have created that community.

We feel Casey's loss everyday and now, almost three years since her death, know that we will feel the pain of her loss every day for the rest of our lives. Doing something good in Casey's memory is, on some days, all that we have that is positive and hopeful and that provides meaning. For parents who have lost children we are so very fortunate for these opportunities.

To paraphrase Victor Frankl—while there is nothing good in misfortune, certainly good can come out of misfortune. Through your help I know that lives are being saved.

Thank you again for allowing us to remember Casey in such a special way.
